GAME DAY

Cedarville University vs. Salem International Univ.

Tuesday, October 14, 2014 • 6 PM

Oct. 14, 2014

I approach this blog asking myself, "When exactly were we in Ohio last week?" It's a valid question when you consider that it was a week of road trips to West Virginia for the Lady Jackets. We devoted part of Tuesday and all of Wednesday to visiting Davis & Elkins and spent Saturday at Alderson Broaddus. Both games were great, both for our record and, slightly more importantly, for this blog. For the former, we ended this week with a hard-fought tie and a big win. For the latter, we had very different traveling experiences for the two trips. D&E was an athletic bus/van combo and AB involved a Buckeye Charter bus.

What does this mean? This means that I can now put the finishing touches on the revolutionary sports theory I've been formulating since freshman year. That is, there is a direct correlation between the vehicular transportation involved with an away game and the performance of the athletic team at that game due to the psychological and emotional connotations associated with the vehicle. In simpler, tweetable words: Athletic Bus/van=Sad=Lose. Charter Bus=Happy=Win. Allow me to demonstrate with a helpful play-by-play featuring specific examples from our last two games.

Loading Up

Athletic Bus: We left for Elkins, WV on Tuesday evening. Do you know how it feels to haul your entire life in a duffel bag and still feel like your forgetting something and that something is the project that's worth 20% of your grade? It's not great. Do you know what it's like to accept the fact that you will be driving four hours and arriving at a hotel room in WV where you will be doing homework for four more hours and saying, "Really...this was the end goal?" It's really not great. Do you know what it's like to arrive at the Callan Athletic Center and swallow the fact that the charter bus you see is not for you, but for the boys team, and that small-am-I-an-airport-shuttle-or-an-athletic-bus, behind the charter bus is all you? It's really, really, ridiculously not great. Suddenly, these disconnected feelings of "not great" come together to mean, "I'm being punished." Then, you ask yourself why. Then, you begin to wonder if it's your performance; surely, they would only do this to a team that is disappointing them. Nothing else could incite such tragedy. Thus, as you vainly search for meaning in the straight-from-everything-bad-about-the-90's pattern on the upholstery of your seat, you start out the trip with a feeling of defeat. Such was the beginning of our D&E trip.

Charter Bus: As we approached the charter bus this past Saturday for our AB trip, we all had definite springs in our steps. The sun was shining, the air was crisp, and everyone was happy. In fact, had we waited just a few more moments, we would've burst into a spontaneous, surprisingly well-choreographed, song and dance number led by Bri. And you want to know why? Because, we had the charter bus that day. No, it wasn't because it was Saturday and therefore much less stressful than a Wednesday. No, I'm not just basing this feeling on the fact that it was my birthday and therefore everyone was required to be happy and enthusiastic when they saw me. No, no, no. It's because the charter bus=comfort. The charter bus=more room. The charter bus=WiFi. The charter bus=life. In fact, if anything, it's because we had the charter bus that my birthday happened to fall on that day (don't think about it, just accept it.) Likewise, we didn't have the charter bus because the weather was nice, the weather was nice because we had the charter bus. If you still don't believe me, I ask you this: why would former player Kelly (Wise) Bender just happen to be in town and happen to bless us all with pancake-sized cookies? She knew what this was. Thus, to return to my theory, the feelings of hope for humanity and general goodwill combine to create a general atmosphere of "Life is good. We are good." We started the AB trip on a very high note.

The Trip

Athletic Bus: At some point during an athletic bus ride, you realize that you've felt every bump, crack, and pebble that's ever graced this great nation's ground. Interestingly this point often comes at the same time when you finally realize "Wait a second...I'm never going to get comfortable...these are airplane seats!" Granted, this inability to sleep increases your productivity level by approximately 67% and the ramrod straight position does great things for your posture. However, it is a little difficult deciding whether or not the goal is to survive the trip, or win the game. This rang particularly true during a D&E trip when the wheel well threatened to fall off any second. In the end, all these dynamics lead to a general disbelief in your own identity as an athlete. Not good.

Charter Bus: I'm not going to say that the charter bus is perfect, but I will say that the only con is that the perfect sleeping conditions are not conducive to homework. But, even then, if you do find the strength to overcome the anesthesia flowing through the air vents, there's WiFi for all your homework needs. Each person has two full seats to use at their own discretion. And, most importantly, there is a functioning toilet right in the back. Comfort has a name and it's Buckeye Charter. More than all that, you simply feel like an athlete when you roll into the school in a massive bus. It just sets you up for success.

The Game

Athletic Bus: After such a ride as I just described, you end up arriving at the game with a decidedly less than optimistic attitude about your prospects. In turn, you start to irrationally connect every less than positive occurrence to the athletic bus. Of course we don't have time to get lunch before the game - yay, athletic bus. Of course we arrived at D&E late, we came in on an athletic bus. Of course this means we now have less time to remember what the words "run" and "kick" mean personally to your asleep and cramped legs - that's what we get for riding on an athletic bus. Of course my hair band just broke - thanks, athletic bus. Of course we dominate possession and shots but still end up with a scoreless tie - this one's for you, athletic bus. For me personally, Of course the set up at this particular field requires me to be banished to a high tower that's basically at the outskirts of the city - cool, athletic bus. Of course I walk all the way to and up that tower only to realize that I will be without a sweatshirt in freezing conditions for two hours - #athleticbus. Do any of these connections make sense? No. Do they seem necessary at the time? Yes.

Charter Bus: After a charming trip on the charter bus, we arrive at the game with the feeling that the world is our oyster. Naturally, the "Of Course's" sound a little different. Of course, we get to play on AB's brand new turf field - thanks-a-million, charter bus!. Of course, we play very well and work very hard - that's a charter bus for you! Of course, Sara Rogers scores one of THE goals of the season from at least 7000 yards out - Let's get a charter bus every game! Of course, Elise follows up with a stunner of her own - Let's hear it for charter buses! Of course, we get a huge 2-0 conference win - Good things come to those who charter. Of course, we are personally commended for our sportsmanship and Christ-like attitude by a fellow Christian from the other team - We'd like to thank our charter bus. Of course we get Chick-fil-A after the game - Charter Chicken time. These connections are no less irrational, but they are decidedly more positive.

Clearly, I have no future as a sports psychologist. You'd be hard-pressed to find anything that holds real weight in what I just wrote. That's because this is all in jest. We had TWO really great trips with really great memories, regardless of the busses we took. I think I can speak for all of us in saying that we are truly thankful for all that our coaches and institution provide for us as a team. We've definitely been blessed with more opportunities and resources than we need. So, if you take any theory away from this blog, let it be this: When it comes to sports, it's not about how a team gets there, because any way is a provision of the Lord. Anything less is a failure in perspective...so I realized...on the charter bus. (juuuust kidding!)

Until next time!

"We Back the Jackets!"

TONIGHT'S GAME

The Cedarville University women's soccer team hosts the Salem International University Tigers in Great Midwest Athletic Conference action tonight at Yellow Jacket Field. The game was originally scheduled for tomorrow night at 6 p.m.

The Jackets, 7-4-1 (2-3-1), posted their fourth-consecutive shutout on Saturday - a 2-0 verdict at G-MAC foe Alderson Broaddus.

The Tigers are 0-7 (0-5) including a 6-0 league loss to visiting Kentucky Wesleyan last Thursday.

Sophomore Grace Miorelli tops the Lady Jackets with a team-high six goals with four assists for 16 points.

Senior forward Kristie Wolff is CU's second-leading scorer with two goals and nine assists for 13 points.

The Lady Jackets third-leading scorer is senior Elise Hurley with four goals and three assists for 11 points.

Grace Miorelli

Jacoby Ziegler, a junior forward who repeated as the G-MAC Offensive Player of the Year in 2013, has four tallies for eight points.

Carly Gregory, a junior, was the G-MAC Defensive Player of the Year. She and Ziegler were joined on the 2013 all-conference first team by Miorelli and junior defender Kaleigh Rowlands.

Junior Sara Rogers has a pair of goals including the game-winner on Saturday at Alderson Broaddus.

Sophomore keeper Hanna Harris has allowed 12 goals while making 47 saves en route to a 0.98 goals against average. Harris, with five shutouts this season, has 14 in her career which ranks second all-time at Cedarville. She trails Alysia Bennett who posted 16 whitewashes during her time at CU.

SIU is under the leadership of Head Coach Joe Hayes.

Jessica Guzman has a goal and an assist for three points to pace the Tigers. Leidy Sanchez has team's only other goal.

Sarah Jacques has played every minute in the nets for Salem - allowing 47 goals while making 100 saves in seven contests.

Cedarville has won both of the previous two meetings with the Tigers - a 12-0 decision on October 20, 2011 in Cedarville - equalling a school record for most goals in a single game. Last October 15, the Lady Jackets recorded a 1-0 decision at Salem International on a goal by Kait Stiles in the 35th minute.

HEAD COACH JOHN MCGILLIVRAY

John McGillivray is one of the most well-respected soccer coaches in the state of Ohio and has been coaching soccer at Cedarville University since 1974.

McGillivray has been the head coach of the Lady Jackets since 1998. He served as the Cedarville men's head coach from 1974 through 1997.

Coupled with the 137 wins with the women, McGillivray has 352 total soccer victories at CU. His 300th overall win came in a 5-0 decision over Grace on Aug. 28, 2008. He picked up his 100th victory with the Lady Jackets in a 2-1 result at Point Park on Oct. 17, 2009.

McGillivray has enjoyed seven winning seasons with the Lady Jackets including a best-ever 15-7 mark in 2013. CU led the Great Midwest Athletic Conference with a 9-1 regular season mark and McGillivray was voted G-MAC Coach of the Year.

Cedarville finished 13-8-2 in 2004, won NCCAA Midwest Region championship, and secured an automatic berth in the NCCAA National Tournament. The 2000 club had a 12-7-2 record and made the school's first-ever NCCAA championship appearance in women's soccer.

McGillivray and his teams have long been recognized for their sportsmanlike behavior. His Lady Jackets twice received the Fair Play Team Award from the American Midwest Conference for their exemplary conduct on the field. He was presented the first-ever Distinguished Merit Award in 1990 by the Ohio Collegiate Soccer Officials Association. The National Intercollegiate Soccer Officials Association honored him in 1992 with their National Merit Award.

The Springfield, Ohio native led his men's teams to eight Mid-Ohio Conference titles, five NCCAA District III banners, three NAIA District 22 championships, and one NAIA Area IV crown which carried with it a trip to the NAIA Nationals in 1974. He guided his squad to five NCCAA National Tournament appearances, a pair of NCCAA National Runner-Up finishes and he was chosen NCCAA National Coach of the Year in 1981.

McGillivray served at all levels of NAIA soccer including president of the NAIA Soccer Coaches Association from 1983 through 1985. He was inducted into the Cedarville University Athletic Hall of Fame in 1991 and the NAIA Hall of Fame in 1993.

McGillivray, who is an associate professor in the Department of Kinesiology and Allied Health, is a 1970 graduate of Cedarville College, and he earned his master's degree in 1976 from the University of Dayton. John and his wife, Bonnie, reside in Cedarville and have five children and 15 grandchildren.

Women's Soccer
Athlete of the Week
(Oct. 5-11, 2014)

Ashley Winkelspecht • Davis & Elkins
Senior • Williamston, NJ

Ashley Winkelspecht has been named the G-MAC Women's Soccer Athlete of the Week for the second time this season after posting a pair of shutouts against two of the conference's best. After an early week non-conference win over Pitt-Johnstown, Winkelspecht didn't allow a goal against Cedarville through two overtimes and then against previously unbeaten Ursuline.

In the two G-MAC contests, Winkelspecht totaled 200 minutes and made 15 saves without allowing a goal against Ursuline and Cedarville, who rank first and third in scoring in the conference.

Winkelspecht leads the conference in goals against average as she has given up only 0.72 goals per game in 12 games and a conference-high 1,128 minutes. She also leads the conference in save percentage making 60 saves and allowing only nine goals in 12 games played (.870 save percentage).

The senior net-minder also moved into a tie for the conference lead in shutouts with her fifth shutout in 12 games.

GREAT MIDWEST ATHLETIC CONFERENCE - WOMEN'S SOCCER

The Great Midwest Athletic Conference (G-MAC), was approved by the NCAA Division II Membership Committee in February of 2012 as a member conference and earned active status in July of 2013, after completing an educational assessment program in 2012-13. The conference began competition as the 24th active NCAA Division II conference in 2013-14.

The G-MAC features both active and reclassifying members from Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, and West Virginia. Charter members of the G-MAC included Cedarville University, Central State University, Kentucky Wesleyan College, Trevecca Nazarene University, and Ursuline College.

The G-MAC expanded with the inclusion of Alderson Broaddus University, Davis & Elkins College, Ohio Valley University, and Salem International University as active DII members. Georgetown College was added as a Provisional Member in 2012, while Cumberland University was added as a Provisional Member in 2013.

The G-MAC, headquartered in the Indianapolis metro area, sponsored 17 championships in 2013-14 as an active NCAA Division II conference.
